

Endangered Asian Species Trust

www.go-east.org

CAN YOU HELP US FIND THE LORIS HIDING IN THE FOREST?

Loris are great at hiding. During the day they curl up into a tiny ball, safely hidden from predators, and the heat of the Sun.

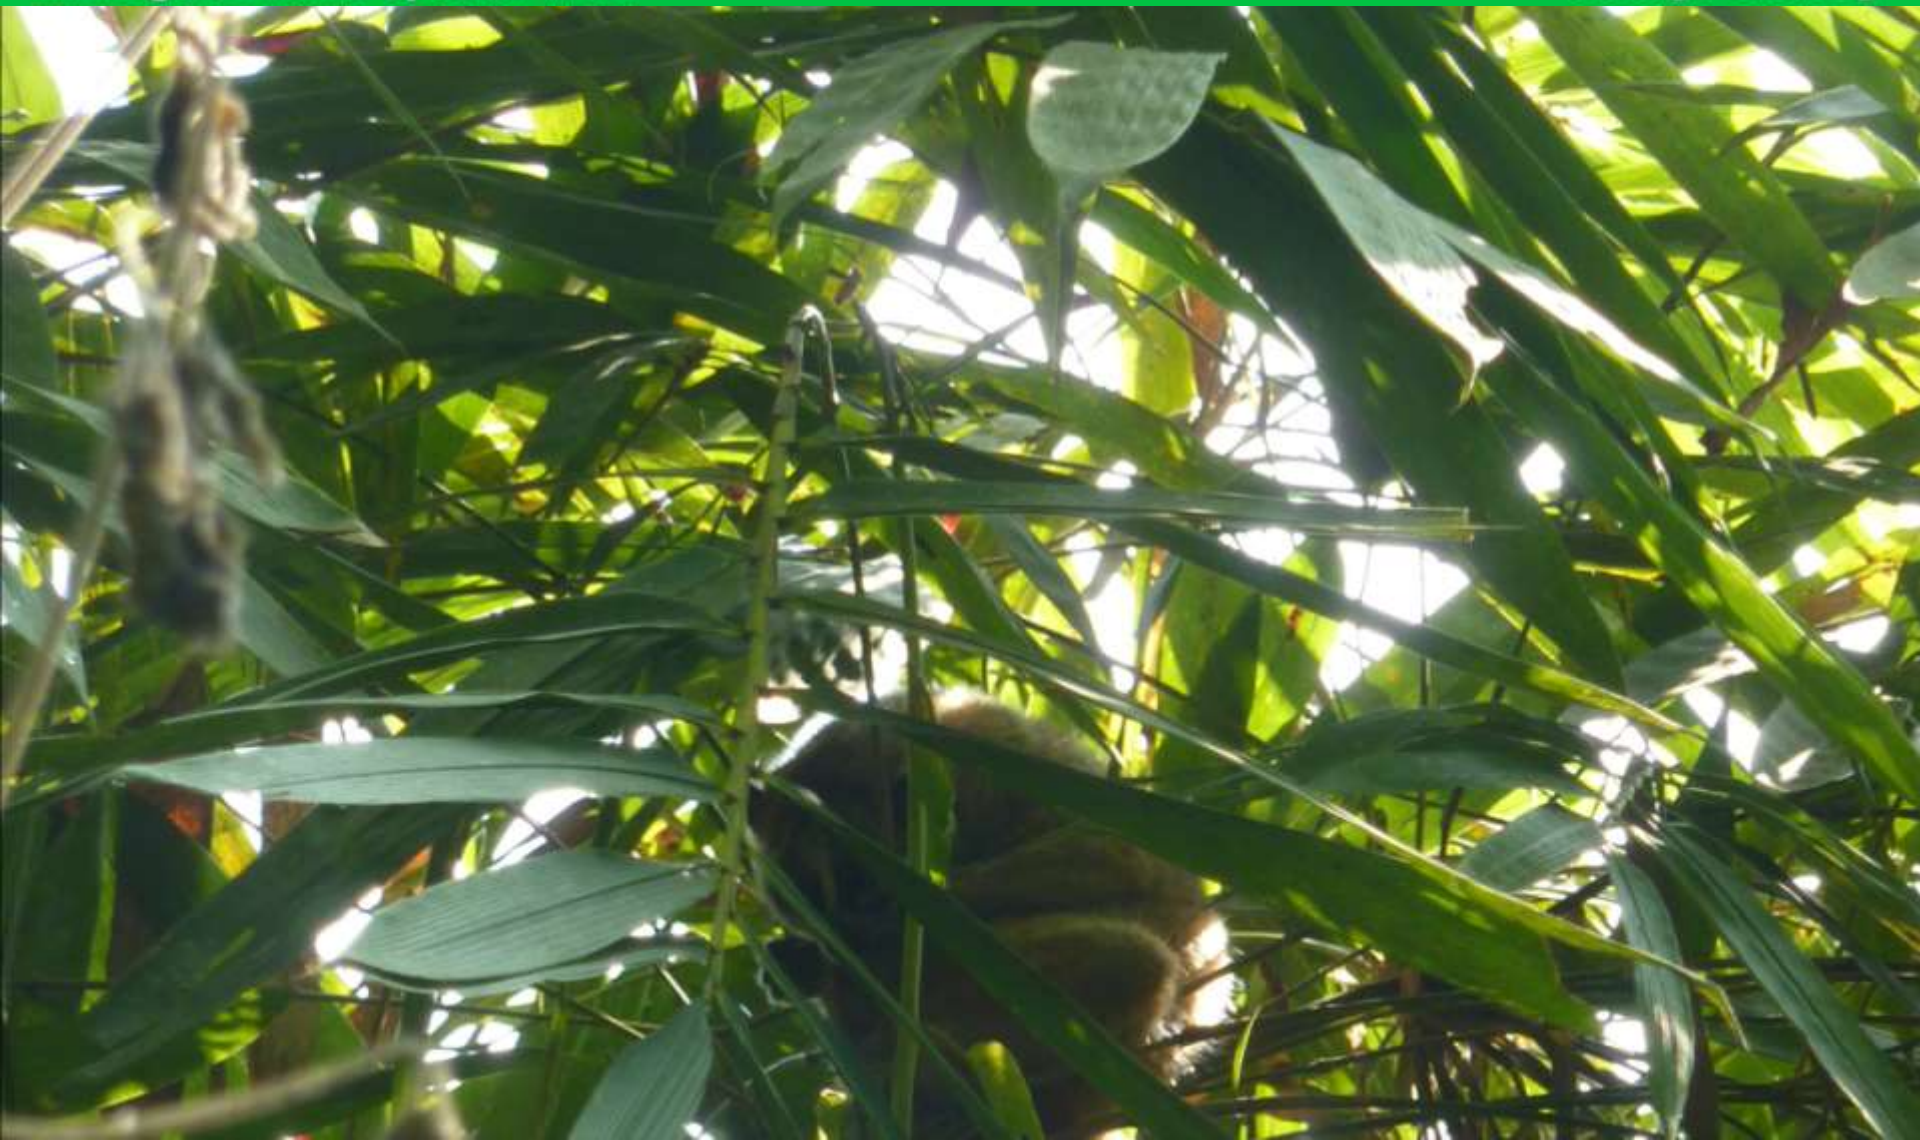

The loris at Dao Tien re-learn wild skills in a small forested area before they are released. Our team look for them everyday to make sure they are sleeping in good spots, and are ready to go back to the wild.

HOW MANY LORIS CAN YOU FIND?

Endangered Asian Species Trust

www.go-east.org

Endangered Asian Species Trust

www.go-east.org

Endangered Asian Species Trust

www.go-east.org

Endangered Asian Species Trust

www.go-east.org

Endangered Asian Species Trust

www.go-east.org

Endangered Asian Species Trust

www.go-east.org

Endangered Asian Species Trust

www.go-east.org

Endangered Asian Species Trust

www.go-east.org

Endangered Asian Species Trust

www.go-east.org

Endangered Asian Species Trust

www.go-east.org

Endangered Asian Species Trust

www.go-east.org

Endangered Asian Species Trust

www.go-east.org

Endangered Asian Species Trust

www.go-east.org

DID YOU FIND ALL THE PYGMY LORIS HIDING?

They're hard to see aren't they? Each of those lorises had been rescued from the illegal wildlife trade. This means they were hunted from the wild to be sold as pets, or used in Traditional Medicine. They were rescued and will be released.

Others aren't so lucky.

Help us end the illegal wildlife trade, by stopping lorises from being taken from the wild in the first place, or kept as pets.

KEEP LORIS WILD!